BRIGHT Industrial Investment and Timo Tschammler enter into strategic partnership

Berlin, 01.12.2020. From December 2020, the real estate company BRIGHT Industrial Investment will be cooperating with Timo Tschammler, founder and managing director of the consulting firm TwainTowers. The former CEO of JLL supports BRIGHT with his network in the transaction business and advises the project developer on the strategic direction.

As Senior Advisor, Tschammler will contribute to the growth of the company, which was founded in early 2020. BRIGHT focuses on project development, investment and asset management in the light industrial and secondary office segments.

Torsten Schmidt, founding partner and managing director of BRIGHT says: "With Timo Tschammler as a strategic partner, we are strengthening ourselves with a prominent, bright mind in the real estate industry. We are looking forward to a close cooperation and hopefully many joint successes".

Timo Tschammler says: "I am very pleased to accompany one of the most promising start-ups in the German real estate industry with BRIGHT Industrial Investment. I made a very conscious decision to enter into a strategic partnership with BRIGHT in the light industrial segment. The value-based corporate culture, the authentic nature of the people involved combined with their professional expertise, the completely digital way the team works – this combination convinced me."
