

Curriculum Vitae

Timo Tschammler FRICS

Managing Director
TwainTowers – Boards & Counsel

Timo Tschammler is managing director of TwainTowers GmbH and holds seats on various supervisory and advisory boards, committees and commissions within the real estate industry. He is involved in numerous activities as Senior Adviser with selected participants in both the German and international real estate sector.

Until recently, he was CEO of JLL Germany and is a major innovator in the digitalisation of working methods within the property sector. He was responsible for the strategic leadership of JLL Germany with a staff of over 1,000, an annual turnover of several hundred million Euros, an annual investment volume of up to €10 billion and lettings comprising an annual take-up of up to 600,000 m².

The high-profile C-level executive has a 25-year career history in the German and European real estate economy. He has an impressive deal-based track record and significant experience in special situations such as turnaround management during the global financial crisis, multi-faceted institutionalisation programmes, high-growth phases in complex matrix structures and restructuring and digitalisation projects.
